

Garden Event

6-4-22, 11am, Zoom, Gottlieb Native Garden with Susan Gottlieb and Scott Logan

Description = California's extended drought brings the threat of further cutbacks to landscape watering. Seeking a water-wise landscape without sacrificing beauty, homeowners can choose California native plants, and create a diverse habitat that invites many species of native wildlife. The California State University at Northridge hosts owner Susan Gottlieb and photographer-naturalist Scott Logan leading us on an inspirational journey as an ivy-covered, inhospitable landscape was transformed into an ecological oasis of over 200 CA native plant species that welcomes nearly 400 animal species.

Cost = Free.
